

Centre for Culture, Ethnicity and Health - online training

We invite clinical and non-clinical staff to enrol for the following free online courses.

Three courses are available for you to complete as follows. You have the option to complete all if desired.

1. Cultural Competence

Cultural Competence training helps you understand and communicate better with people from other cultures. This results in more job satisfaction for staff, better services, and happier clients.

2. Health Literacy

Health Literacy training helps you deliver services that are easier to understand, empowers your clients to make better decisions and creates better health outcomes. It can also help you meet a wide range of accreditation criteria.

3. Trauma-Informed Care

In our community, approximately one in five people has experienced trauma that hinders their ability to access and benefit from necessary care and services.

This is particularly true for refugees, who have often faced traumatic events such as war, violence, persecution, and displacement.
