

CULTURAL AWARENESS TRAINING

Turning good intentions into culturally safe practice

Work effectively with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander peoples: equipping GPs and health services with practical tools

Areas that the training will cover include:

- Defining and developing culturally safe practice
- History and its impact on health service engagement
- Policy context - opportunities and barriers
- Current incentives for GP practices
- Closing the Gap initiatives - support available
- Community controlled health services: IUIH Model of Care
- Barriers to access, engagement, and follow-up

Completion of this training meets the Practice Incentive Program (PIP) Indigenous Health Incentive Requirement. Additionally, IUIH now has the availability to facilitate RACGP accredited in-house TGIICS training.
